This is an archival book, designed to preserve a genealogical research collection, but not to be widely distributed nor offered for sale to the general public.

A Note to Researchers

The subjects of this compiled genealogy are ancestors of Meredith Eugene Hunt, a graduate of Berea College, who married Edith Weatherford, daughter of President Willis Duke Weatherford II. Entries are arranged alphabetically by surnames; so they should be easy to find, even though this “manuscript” has neither index nor table of contents.

BARTLETT

ESTHER BARTLETT

d. of Nicholas Bartlett & Mary Martin; m. John Beal Hunt; m. of Lydia, Charles Wesley, Jesse, Mary, Samuel, Nancy, William Claiborne, John, Esther, Louisa & Sarah Hunt; b. 27 June 1783 Md. or Va.³; m. 1802 Washington Co., Tenn.; d. 10 Sept 1858 or 1857 at the home of her son John, (apparently) in Bushnell, McDonough Co., Illinois; bur. Aspen Grove Cem., Burlington, Des Moines Co., Iowa; [Hunt MS]

NICHOLAS BARTLETT⁴

s. of William Bartlett & Margaret ?; m. Mary Martin (b. May 1746 NC; after Nicholas died, she lived with her daughter Esther, who had settled near Edwardsville, Madison Co., Illinois, for 9 years—then she moved to the home of her daughter Mary Pearce, at the Shaker community of South Union, Logan Co., Ky.; d. 15 July 1837 Shakertown, Logan Co., Ky.; bur. in Shaker Cemetery, Shakertown (South Union), Logan Co.); b. 25 Jan 1742 Dorchester Co., Md.; prob. m. in Va.; settled in Rockingham Colony, Virginia; in 1784

³ The Hunt MS suggests both Baltimore Co., Md., and Greenbrier Co., Va., as birthplaces and offers two possible birth years, 1773 and 1783. If Esther was born in 1773, she was almost 60 when her last child was born, which seems very unlikely. The Hunt MS also suggests two possible places of death for her, Burlington, Des Moines Co., Iowa, or Galesburg, Knox Co., Illinois. I have used still a third option, presented by contemporary researchers.

⁴ According to the Hunt MS, Nicholas Bartlett was born in 1742 in New Hampshire and fought in the American Revolution, serving as a private in Capt. Ezra Curron's Co. of New Hampshire Militia; these details seem to be erroneous in a family genealogy that is for the most part remarkably accurate. I think the compiler may have been overanxious to pick up a Revolutionary ancestor and so substituted Nicholas Bartlett of New Hampshire for Nicholas Bartlett of Dorchester Co., Md., who is identified by all contemporary sources. Another apparent error in the Hunt MS: the statement that Mary Bartlett, Nicholas's wife, died in Fayette Co., Ky. It appears that she died in Shakertown, Logan Co., Ky., very far south of Lexington.

moved to Tennessee, then State of Franklin; d. 14 Jan 1814 Knox Co., Tenn.; [Bartlett]

“In the fall of 1784, Nicholas and Mary and their six children left the Greenbrier Colony (then in Rockingham County) and moved to Tennessee, settling a few miles south of Knoxville. This area was then in what was called the State of Franklin, having once been part of North Carolina, and then was on the frontier and subject to trouble with the Cherokee. In 1785 he built a grist mill on Stock Creek, in what was then Greene County and in 1792 became Knox County, and soon the mill was fortified to provide safety from Indian attacks for settlers in the vicinity. Blount County was created from Knox County south of Knoxville in 1795 with “Bartlett’s Station” lying on the county line. Nicholas owned a large amount of land and gave much of it to his children before his death.” [Bartlett, “Some Descendants of Nicholas Bartlett (1742-1814) and Mary Martin” at <http://homepages.rootsweb.com/~bartlett/bartlett-nicholas.htm>.

An historical marker in Blount County, Tennessee near the Knox County line reads:

BARTLETT’S STATION

Nicholas Bartlett built a mill 500 ft. downstream about 1765. When Blount County was created in 1795 it mill-pond was a turning point from the Stock Creek boundary to run toward Bay’s Mountain. The mill was used as a fort in the Indian troubles of 1765, and was later a stage stop on the Federal Road.

Will of Nicholas Bartlet

¹⁶ The ages for both David & Priscilla Ports are wildly off on this census (more than 20 years in her case), but it is unmistakably them, with six of their children in the household. The census taker must have been careless, indeed!

¹⁷ Many black laborers are listed on this census page, but these are all free blacks—slave were not listed. It is likely that David Ports was supervising a labor force of slaves with some free workers.

IRA WELLS²⁰

s. of Daniel Wells & Lucy Fuller; m. Anna Elizabeth Mandler; b. 30 July 1814 in Athens, Windham Co., Vermont; his parents left Vermont in 1828, to Ohio and thence to Illinois; served in the Black Hawk War; m. 10 Dec 1844 Hampton Bluff, Rock Island Co., Ill. or 8

Dec 1844 Rock Island Co., Ill.; started to Oregon Apr 1847; went to Oregon in 1847 with Dan Euells, Lewis & George Correll & Tom Smith; fl. Douglas Co., Oregon in 1870; d. 17 July 1892 Elkton, Douglas Co., Oregon

From a letter dated Oct. 16, 1932, written by Mary T. Wells, Elkton, Oregon:

Ira and Ann Elizabeth Wells came to Oregon by covered wagon and Ox team from Illinois in 1847. They left Ill. in April and landed in Eugene, Oregon on Oct. 12. An accident while crossing the Rogue River caused the death of their first child. They buried it at Eugene at the place called Skinners Butte. They first located where Cottage Grove now stands, and two more children were born there. They found the Indians so troublesome, they finally abandoned the place and spent the winter in Scotts Valley. Another child was born to them there. In April, 1851, they moved to a place near Elkton, Oregon, where some of the family still live. There was no road to that place at that time, no white woman had ever been over the Indian trails which they followed. They brought their three babies, their chickens, pigs, and all their household belongings on horse and mule back; not an easy accomplishment, but hardy pioneers could do most anything in those days. [Quoted in Foster]

THOMAS WIMBERLY

²³ Some portion of this man's lineage may be fanciful [maybe all of it], beginning with places: Albemarle County, Virginia, did not exist in 1710, and when it did, it was a long way from Charles City County. I have included this shaky information simply because some portion of it may [accurately?] assert Huguenot ancestry.

Hello,

What a hair-raising tale of your son's remarkable escape! It seems that having children virtually guarantees that we will experience the human extremities of joy and terror.

I am attaching the file as I found it; I did not examine it at all. I'll leave that to you, if you're able to open it, and so on. You may certainly do whatever you want to do with it. I really am sorry that the book disappeared from Lulu; I never meant it to be for sale, so your copy and mine were the only ones ever produced.

Anyway, here (HOPEFULLY) it is.

Best wishes,

Richard
